

Cooperation

Focus day

What is cooperation?

- Listening carefully to understand what people are saying.
- Sharing your things with others.
- Taking turns when someone else wants to do the same thing.
- Compromising when you have a disagreement.
- Doing your best & encouraging others to do their best.
- Thanking people for the part they are playing.

Listening

- Stop what you are doing
- Make eye contact
- Give your full attention
- Listen to what they are saying

Sharing & Taking Turns

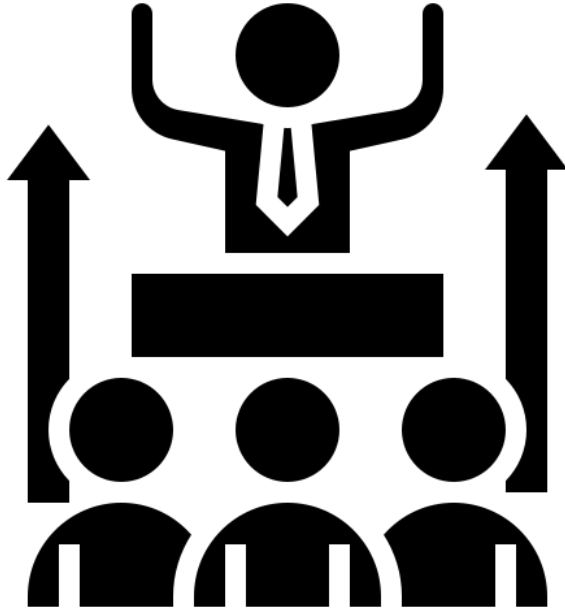

- It sometimes feels uncomfortable.
- Think about how it would feel if things were the other way around.
- It's a chance to show kindness and fairness as well as cooperation.

Compromising

- Can help us solve problems.
- It means taking a piece from everyone's ideas and putting them together to make everyone happy.
- It can help people agree when they have different ideas.

Encouraging others

- You might not realise it but your words have the power to influence other people.
- If you use this influence to encourage people, it can make them feel happy knowing you believe in them.
- If you know you have helped other people, you will feel good too!

Thanking People

- It is important to show an appreciation for kindness
- Even if it is just with the words ‘thank you’.
- There is a well-known saying: “Manners cost nothing.”
